

Confidential Referral Form

The Geraldton Family and Youth Support Service has been running for several years and has offered a supportive role to students, families and schools during this time. The service caters for students aged between 11-18, who have been identified as “at risk” and needing support in social skilling, self-esteem, interaction with peers, anger management, family conflict and students who are unable to access appropriate recreational activities. The areas of self-esteem and social skilling are particularly relevant during the transition period between primary and high school.

Client placement onto the program relies on a referral process and individual students may be referred by teachers, school psychologists or relevant agency such as the Department of Communities.
